- Describe the most difficult supervisor or professor you have had, and tell me how you dealt with that person.

Well, I used to be teaching assistant in different courses with different professors. In most cases I had no concern to deal with person I work with except one professor who was difficult to be convinced. I suggested to him to apply small quizzes for students in programming lab to make sure they understand what we taught them. At the beginning he said no we don't need to do that, but I was sure that it is going to be more effective since the course is practical and need a lot of practicing. So, I asked one of my colleague who was TA in another university and he was applying quizzes method to provide me with students feedback about quizzes in this course and how they can be helpful. Then, I showed this feedback to my professors and he was convinced to apply these quizzes. At the end of semester, he was amazed with students progress and results.
